Dear Munusamy:

Congratulations! I am pleased to inform you that your application to the Computer Engineering program at Rochester Institute of Technology has been approved by our Admissions Committee for Fall 2011 entry. We believe that you possess the academic potential and motivation to benefit from the rich academic resources available to you at RIT.

In completing a careful review of your application, our Admissions Committee was unable to offer you admission to your first choice academic program, at this time. This program has received applications from a large number of students, making candidate selection very competitive. Since your application indicates that Computer Engineering is an alternate program choice, we proceeded to review your qualifications for that program. Your record indicates strong potential for success in Computer Engineering at RIT, and we invite you to join us as you pursue your college studies. Although we believe that this alternative represents a viable academic option for you, you should not pursue this option as a means for gaining entrance to your first choice program. We are unable to guarantee that there will be a place for you in your first choice program next year.

In deciding to attend RIT, you will be joining the student body of an internationally recognized university. Enthusiasm and commitment to teaching are undeniable characteristics of RIT's distinguished faculty. Our students have access to some of the finest laboratories, technology and computing facilities available on any university campus. Employers know that our students have high-caliber qualifications and experience which makes our graduates highly sought after in the marketplace. On campus you will find that just about everything you need is available to provide you with a rich and well-rounded college experience.

We have enclosed the essential information you need to accept our offer of admission. Please review this information carefully. To accept our offer of admission we encourage you to confirm your intention to enroll by completing the Acceptance of Admission Form and paying the $300 deposit online at admissions.rit.edu. If you are unable to respond online, you may complete the enclosed Acceptance of Admission Form, attach the acceptance deposit and mail it to the Office of Undergraduate Admissions. You must confirm your intention to enroll to reserve your place in the freshman class.

Submitting your acceptance deposit early provides new students with several benefits. The deposit date is used in the priority assignment of campus housing. In addition, the deposit converts your myRIT computer account into a current RIT student account, affording you full-access to all of our online educational resources. Students submitting the acceptance deposit or residence hall contract with a postmark after May 1, 2011 may have their deposit returned or be placed in temporary housing.

This offer of admission has been made with the understanding that you will successfully complete your secondary school program of study prior to entering RIT. Information regarding RIT's orientation program, housing assignments, and course registration will be forwarded to you as this information becomes available. In the meantime, if we may be of any assistance do not hesitate to contact us.

Again, please accept our congratulations on your admission to RIT. We are confident that your years on campus will be challenging and rewarding. We look forward to welcoming you to the RIT community.

Sincerely,

Daniel R. Shelley, Ph.D.
